Window & Door Showrooms:

I buy the majority of my windows and doors through Dixieline Lumber. I get very good pricing from them and good service. They also offer many different product lines. They have two showrooms for your convenience. You can work with any of their window and door personnel to make your selections, but do not order the products from them, since I have a wholesale contractor rep that services my account through which I get better pricing than you can get from the salesman at the showroom. Just make a list of what you select and give it to me. Whatever product you choose, I will work to get the best pricing for you.

Links to window and door manufactures are listed below with many more on our web site www.DNDB.info Under the Resources tab on the menu tabs select Window & Door Mfg. Links to view the manufacturer web sites for the materials most often used by my clients. These manufacturer web sites have very good pictures and descriptions of all the items they sell.
